“YOU’RE WEARING THAT TO YOUR INTERVIEW?”

Crucial Image Tips That Can “Land” the Job!

I heard a story about a young man who had a wildly successful college career in the medical field; he excelled in every area of study. His university nominated him for an advanced training program with a world-wide association representing his field of study. He was so excited about this opportunity and all who knew him were convinced that his selection for the program was a “no-brainer.” My friend who was telling me this story paused for a moment then said, “I wanted you to hear this story because it is so sad and so true. This young man, who was my son’s roommate, did not get chosen to go to the advanced school. When he called and asked why they said only this; ‘it was your interview.’” No one had prepared him; he didn’t prepare himself.
